PINCHOT ISSUES STATEMENT

Points Out How Illegal Liquor Selling May Be Checked.

WOULD STRIKE AT THE SOURCE

Pennsylvania Governor Again Places Responsibility For Dry Law Enforcement on the Federal Government—Says Governors' Conference Failed to Discuss Details of How to Enforce the Law.

Washington, Oct. 22.—Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania, whose unexpected silence featured the white house conference of governors, spoke his mind in a formal statement placing upon the federal government the burden of responsibility for prohibition enforcement.

Mr. Pinchot in effect reiterated the position taken publicly a week ago, when he placed the enforcement problem squarely upon the shoulders of President Coolidge.

The governor asserted that the president's conference Saturday failed to discuss the practical details of how to enforce the law. He then pointed out how, in his opinion, the selling of illegal domestic liquor can be dried up, adding that "the present orgy of lawlessness is utterly unnecessary." His statement continued:

"The main sources of the present flood of illegal drink are breweries, alcohol producing plants, liquor in bond and smuggling. Smuggling can be dealt with only by the national government. It is a problem by itself. Breweries and alcohol producing plants can not operate or deliver their products except under federal permit, while liquor in bond is wholly controlled as to its safe-keeping, transportation and release by federal permits.

"In the matter of permits the federal government, as Commissioner Haynes well says, is solely responsible and the states can not help. If the federal government would write into each of its permits to manufacture, transport, store or utilize alcoholic liquids certain simple conditions, it would make law-breaking so difficult as to be practically impossible under anything short of actual collusion between law-breakers and the enforcement officials.

"I do not suggest that Pennsylvania or any other state should be relieved of any part of its duty in law enforcement, but the states should not be compelled to pick up the bird shot scattered all over the floor by the failure of the federal government to check the flood of illegal liquor at its source.

"When the federal government uses its power over permits as here suggested, when it takes the enforcement service out of politics and raises it to a higher level, the flood of illegal liquor will be stopped at the source, and the whisky rebellion will be over."

Among the conditions which Mr. Pinchot would have written into the permits are: Revocation of the permit when the permittee is caught violating the law; supervision of manufacture and access to all parts of the plant day or night by state and national enforcement officers; products to be shipped only at specified times and only after inspection and stamping at the plant.

BREAKS WITH BERLIN

Bavaria Determined Not to Be Dictated to by Stresemann.

Munich, Oct. 22.—War is on between the dictator of north Germany and the dictator of south Germany. The mental attitudes of north and south Germany are so diametrically different on vital domestic issues and foreign policies that an amicable settlement in the abnormal atmosphere is out of the question. Bavaria is determined not to be dictated to by the northern dictator, this being emphasized by a proclamation of Bavarian Dictator Von Kahr following a council of ministers severing the national army in Bavaria from the army of the rest of Germany, creating a "Bavarian reichswehr." As further defiance, Kahr as dictator has appointed Von Lossow, whom Ebert through Stresemann ordered dismissed from the service, as commander of the Bavarian troops. The national army units in Bavaria, probably not exceeding 15,000, has taken the Bavarian oath of allegiance.

DICTATOR'S WORDS

Bavaria Has No Intention of Seceding From Germany.

Munich, Oct. 22.—"Bavaria has not separated from Germany. Bavaria has no intention of doing any such thing. Bavaria simply refuses to be the goat for the Berlin government just because the Berlin government needed a goat to please the socialists and communists."

These statements were made by Bavarian Dictator Von Kahr. He continued: "Bavaria has not severed diplomatic relations with Berlin. Bavaria considers itself the citadel of German national thought from which our new Germany shall grow. Bavaria is national against all the sovietism and the international Marxists, destructive elements. We have recalled our minister from Saxony because Bavaria does not want to be represented in a state the government of which denies all principles of state authority."

FISHER'S SPEECH STIRS OFFICIALS

Urged American Participation in European Affairs.

SPEAKS BEFORE WAR COLLEGE

Professor Directly Opposed the Views Held by President Coolidge and Cabinet and Suggested Connection of International Indebtedness With the Reparations Problem—Speech Resented by Officials.

Washington, Oct. 22.—A storm was aroused here by the publication of the news that Professor Irving Fisher of Yale university had presented his plea for American participation in European affairs before students attending the United States army war college, where the war department trains its highest officers.

Invited to speak before the college, it was learned, Dr. Fisher delivered an address directly in opposition to the policies followed by the American government under two administrations. Major General Hanson E. Ely, commandant of the college, presided, while the professor regretted American nonparticipation in the league of nations.

Colonel George S. Simmonds, assistant commandant, introduced Dr. Fisher to the assembled officers and led the general discussion which followed the professor's advocacy of a "business-like schedule for all international debts," so that bankers could float new loans for financing France and Germany.

Dr. Fisher, it was revealed, directly opposed the views held by President Coolidge and Secretary of State Hughes, and insisted upon connecting international indebtedness with the reparations problem.

Administration leaders openly resented the idea of allowing Dr. Fisher the opportunity to urge before army officers the adoption of a policy which has been held to clash directly with the administration's course. Those who have opposed foreign entanglements were frank in their denunciation of what they characterized as internationalism preached to the very men who stand charged with the national defense.

The association of Dr. Fisher's ideas with an established government institution like the war college, it was pointed out, is particularly untimely under existing conditions.

CHARGE WHAT COAL TRAFFIC WILL BEAR

Anthracite Goes Through Hands of Several Wholesalers.

Washington, Oct. 22.—Forty per cent of the anthracite coal of domestic sizes passes through the hands of two or more wholesalers between the producer and the retailer or consumer, the federal trade commission revealed.

The margins realized by wholesalers on 12 per cent of this coal exceed 90 cents per ton; on 17 per cent the margins are 75 cents; on 37 per cent from 50 to 70 cents, and on the remaining 34 per cent from 20 to 40 cents a ton.

"Margins of 75 cents and more per ton are clearly characteristic of a speculative market, and are the result of wholesalers charging what the traffic will bear," the commission declares, adding: "The margin of 25 cents per ton appears to be rather generally recognized as the margin taken by wholesalers regularly handling coal from the large producing companies, which usually impose some profit limitations upon wholesalers handling their coal."

Thus it appears that the consumer pays two, three and four times the standard margin to wholesalers on two-thirds of the domestic anthracite consumed, and that on almost one-third of this coal they exact three and four times the standard return through speculative manipulation of the market. The figures of the trade commission are based on a survey of anthracite shipments for the week ending Sept. 22.

Death of William Taylor, 60, who had been married for more than 35 years, revealed that "he" was a woman. The "wife" resides at Lynxville, Wisconsin.

DOINGS IN OHIO

Gas and Oil Men Meet.

Columbus, Oct. 22.—The Ohio Gas and Oil Men's association opened its annual convention here today. "Transition from Natural to Manufactured Gas" was the subject of an address by Dana J. Demorest, professor of metallurgy, engineering experiment station, Ohio State university. He told the association what can be done, or must be done, with present equipment when it becomes necessary to supply manufactured gas and how to enrich manufactured gas with the remaining supply of natural gas that may be available.

Fatal Shooting Affray.

Akron, O., Oct. 22.—M. M. (Slim) Webb, 42, a race horse trainer of Clinton, Mo., is under arrest here and Peter S. Callen of Toronto and F. W. Gerhardt of Detroit, race track judges, are fatally wounded as the result of a shooting affray in the lobby of the Portage hotel. The shooting was the climax of a quarrel between the trainer and the judges, which came after Webb was suspended on charges of "fixing" a race at Northampton park.

Circular Held Scurrilous.

Alliance, O., Oct. 22.—E. L. Walker of Cleveland, brother of Dr. O. C. Walker, who was murdered Sept. 28, 1921, was brought to this city to answer to a charge of being responsible for the distribution of a scurrilous circular in Alliance. The circular attacked Dr. W. H. McMaster, president of Mount Union college and foreman of the special grand jury appointed by Attorney General Crabbe last April to investigate the murder.

Bandit Shot.

Cleveland, Oct. 22.—An unidentified man is in a hospital here with a bullet wound near the heart. He was shot by his companion after the two had held up a restaurant and were making away with the cash box containing about $100. Police believe the shot was fired to deter pursuit by the restaurant employees and that the bullet went wild.

Three Cars In Collision.

Canton, O., Oct. 22.—S. S. Trump, 50, was killed and seven others were injured when three automobiles crashed six miles north of this city. Trump and Sam Garris were driving the machines into which a third car, said to have been driven by Justin Treisch, crashed when the driver was adjusting his headlights.

Shot by Young Stepson.

Cleveland, Oct. 22.—Edward Graves, 39, was shot and fatally wounded. Police are holding his 8-year-old stepson, Colt Perkins, as the one who fired the shot. Graves quarreled with his wife during a birthday party in their home, the boy told police, declaring he shot only when his stepfather had attacked his mother.

Youths Bound Over.

Marysville, O., Oct. 22.—Leo Jewell, high school senior, and Roland Mills, both of whom are 18 years old, were bound over to the grand jury in the sum of $2,500 here on a charge of robbing the Earl Hammerle restaurant. Both went to jail when unable to furnish bond.

Workman Fatally Hurt.

Chillicothe, O., Oct. 22.—Caught between two rolls of paper at a local paper mill Lewis Huber, machine tender, was so badly crushed that he died of internal hemorrhages.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has donated $10,000 to University of Pennsylvania to provide insulin treatment for public ward and dispensary patients suffering from diabetes.

SEPARATISTS SEIZE CITIES

Rhineland Republic Proclaimed at Aix La Chapelle.

TROOPS MOVING ON COLOGNE

French Occupational Forces Reported to Have Maintained Strict Impartiality, but Are Believed to Be in Sympathy With Movement—Rhineland Population Reduced Almost to Starvation and May Not Resist.

Paris, Oct. 22.—The Rhineland republic has been proclaimed at Aix La Chapelle and the Rhinish troops are moving on Cologne.

One thousand troops proceeding from Aachen to Dusseldorf have proclaimed a republic at the latter city.

A report from Aachen headquarters states that the republic extends throughout the entire Belgian zone and includes Mayence, Coblenz, Wiesbaden and Dulsberg.

While the French occupational forces ostensibly maintained strict impartiality regarding the movement for the new republic, the proclamation could not possibly have been carried out, it is declared here, without the protection of allied bayonets, as only a minority of the Rhineland population favor separation from Germany.

The result will be either anarchy and civil war in Germany, or the constitution of a new "buffer state," like Luxembourg, between France and Germany, with France dominating the Rhine, as Germany before the war dominated Luxembourg.

The Rhinish troops having captured Aix la Chapelle without a shot are now marching on Cologne, which is in the British occupied zone and which is also the headquarters of the anti-separatists.

The Rhineland population, including the people of the Ruhr, it is realized, have been reduced almost to starvation, and may acquiesce peacefully in the creation of a state which has the support of only a small minority. On the other hand, it is recalled, the proclamation of a separate state at Ludwigshafen four years ago survived only four days, although it had French backing. At that time the workmen immediately proclaimed a general strike and forced a withdrawal of those supporting the French plan.

The workmen in the Rhineland are regarded as constituting the most national group within the territory occupied by the allies. Economic conditions have changed since the workers defeated the French designs four years ago, but some protest move against the present proclamation is fully expected.

The proclamation at Aix la Chapelle, it is felt, is certain to aggravate the situation in Bavaria and Saxony. If the Rhineland population and the Berlin government both prove powerless in the face of French domination, developments will strengthen the hands of the separatists in Munich and Dresden.

4,000 ON HUNGER STRIKE

Irish Republican Prisoners Reported to Be Refusing Food.

Dublin, Oct. 22.—From Mountjoy prison where 400 republican prisoners have been reported as hunger strikers, the hunger striking has now spread to many other prisons where the Free State government is detaining captured irregulars. Republican leaders now declare that there are 4,000 of their comrades in Free State prisons who are refusing food. The situation is really serious for the government, as it is feared that if even one prisoner dies the whole country may again be plunged into trouble.

President Cosgrave, speaking in front of the old Irish parliament house, said: "If the prisoners were really hunger striking it might be different but there is a lot of bluff about these 'trikes'."

Sisler to Manage Browns.

St. Louis, Oct. 22.—George Sisler, former first baseman of the St. Louis Americans, has been signed to manage the Browns, according to an announcement by Business Manager Bill Friel upon his return from New York.

Victim of Auto Accident.

Canton, O., Oct. 22.—James V. McCann, for eight years a member of the editorial staff of the Canton Daily News, died in Mercy hospital from injuries received in an automobile accident.

MORO BAND IN REVOLT

Armed With Rifles and Cannon and Running Amuck in Hills.

Manila, Oct. 22.—Captain Butierrez and the governor of Colbati have telegraphed Governor Leonard Wood that 290 Moro fanatics, armed with 45 rifles and several brass cannon, are running amuck in the mountains of Clabati province. Governor Wood was advised that only 140 constabulary soldiers and nine officers are available there to put down the uprising. General Rafael Crame, chief of the Philippine constabulary, has advised Colonel Waloe that 150 additional constabulary troops are in readiness at Manila to proceed to Mindanano if it is considered necessary to help to subdue the Moro fanatics in that province. Colonel Waloe has been advised by General Crame to take 75 men from Zamboanga and an equal number from other nearby places to Lanao to assist in fighting the fanatics.

Wood in New Clash.

Manila, Oct. 22.—A new clash between Governor General Leonard Wood and the leaders of the Philippine legislature has occurred over the management of the Manila railroad to fill the vacancy created by the death of Colonel McCoy. Governor Wood insists that an American must be appointed, while Manuel Quezon and Senor Roxas are just as insistent that a Filipino be appointed to fill the office of manager.

VISITS LINCOLN CABIN

Lloyd George Makes Trip Into Hardin County, Kentucky.

Louisville, Oct. 22.—Former Premier David Lloyd George continued his explorations into the early life and history of Abraham Lincoln by making a 60-mile trip into Hardin county to see the log cabin in which Lincoln was born. Dame Margaret George accompanied her husband. At Hodgenville, the end of the rail journey, a large crowd was waiting. Lloyd George was first escorted to the statue of Lincoln in the center of the village. The statue portrays Lincoln in a sitting posture. Lloyd George stood at the base of the statue a long while in rapt study of the chiseled features. A group of children sang the national anthems of England and America and Lloyd George was presented with Lincoln souvenirs and a large bouquet.

Many New Weaves, Elegant Patterns

Old Materials Predominate, Though Offered Under New Names.

The matter of textiles is, this year, of the utmost importance, asserts a fashion writer in the New York Times. The weaves are new and many, the patterns attractive. Some that have new names are but old materials of proven virtues. The desire of most women is for softness of texture, for luxury in brocades—silk, wool or metal. Many of the designs belong to the elegance of toilets in earlier days and the color combinations shown are both subtle and daring.

The advance of art in the looms is evident in some of the latest fabrics. Kasha, of which so much is promised, is the euphonious name of our old friend camel's hair—the unwrinkleable, long-haired kind. There was never a dress material more refined, more graceful and altogether satisfactory—more distinctly the cloth for fashioning a lady's gown. It comes now in hues such as we never dreamed of in its original manufacture. Kasha is especially liked for one-piece gowns, the coat dress or the draped model. It appears in some of the handsomest styles for street wear and for indoors, its fluffy softness yielding to graceful, draped lines.

Departing from plain colors, several striking gowns of kasha have been received by a prominent New York couturier. One is done in cinnamon brown, of which the upper part of the dress is made, down to the line of the hip. The bodice has slight coat revers at the neck and straight, wrist-length sleeves. The waist, unbelted, hangs away in an eon jacket effect. The skirt, straight and narrow, has a border more than knee depth of the cloth woven in a bold pattern combining the Greek key and Egyptian characters, in brilliant orange, brown and gray. A strip of this gaudy border is sewn across the back of the neck, like a shallow sailor collar. The composition is bold, but no crudeness is evident and the result is fetching.

Matelasse is the original material beloved of our grandmothers, and is therefore an absolute novelty to the present generation. It is a brocade in wool or silk of fine weave, richness and dignity. It is happily adapted to the latest styles for afternoon, to be trimmed with fur or worn with a fur scarf. Matelasse will be shown in some Russian tunics and in soft-line wraps. The two-tone character of the cloth gives scope for numerous color combinations, some of which are very beautiful. Marigold and henna, brown and orange, tan and gray, green and gray, green and blue are among the most charming. Polart twill endures and duve de pache, a fine variety of duvetyn; the two-sided crepe, charmeuse, poplins and velvet, for which a tremendous vogue is predicted.

Every woman knows the flattering quality of a velvet gown, especially in black, for daytime or evening, and almost any sort of frock fashioned of velvet gives the wearer a dressy appearance. A new velvet is the erect pile, having no nap, and may be cut either way. The browns from Havana to seal, are much liked for coat dresses and three-piece suits, successfully trimmed with fur or embroidery. Velvets in evening colors are being shown in most enchanting shades—milk green, apple green, pea green, sapphire, goblin blue, hydrangea, hyacinth, orange, amber, gold, flame, rose, mulberry, coral, apricot, orchid, violet, mauve.

For the Small Girl.

Many women enjoy cross-stitching as a pastime, and little dresses for very small girls stamped with exceedingly good design to be worked in red and blue are well worth the time expended upon them.

On Dark Blue Crepe.

For fall a most attractive child's dress is of dark blue crepe de chine, with touches of cross-stitching across the shoulders of the raglan sleeves.

Hotel Stenographer

BY ROE FULKERSON

"I never go to a garden party but what some one spills catsup on my nice white skirt," said the Hotel Stenographer.

"Pretty cold for garden parties, ain't it?" asked the House Detective.

"Kelly," answered the girl, "I was speaking in metaphor. The idea I was trying to get into your bean is that every time I think I am jake, somebody crabs the party. Every time I get floating on a pink cloud in a magenta sky somebody comes along and pulls in the cloud for fear it will rain.

"Last night I went to a progressive peanut party. I got along fine altho I don't know how to play peanut and somebody had to play my hand at every table.

"At the third table I met a guy with eyes like a cow, surrounded by lashes as long as kolinski fur. He was lucky enough to look like a poet, while fortunate enough to have a good, steady job as boss of a construction gang.

"I set my azure orbs to work on him and he began to follow me around, like a pup following a child with a sandwich. I had just made up my mind that my long search for home and for happiness was at an end, and that I was due to pick honeysuckle off the trellis at the front step and hum a merry tune as I waited in my fresh gingham dress for my nice husband, when a woman came along and told him he would have to beat it back home, because she had forgotten to empty the refrigerator pan, and it would run all over the kitchen, if he didn't get there quick.

"That guy was the most married man I have seen in a long, long time. He lit out from there like a ladybug does when you tell her to fly away, that her house is on fire and her children are burning up. That was what made me say I never loved a fond gazelle but what it fell buttered side down."

Simple Filter to Clean Oil.

As a means of separating dirt, metal dust, etc., from used oil, the filter which may be made in the following manner will be found very efficient: Fasten a piece of muslin or cotton cloth to a metal or wooden ring large enough to fit over the top of a can, drum or other vessel. The cloth should be left a little slack and into the shallow bag so formed a quantity of sawdust is placed. The oil to be filtered is poured through and leaves its foreign matter behind in the sawdust.

Bull Baiting.

This was a sport once popular in England, but declared illegal in 1835. A bull was attacked by dogs, and sometimes the nostrils of the bull were blown full of pepper to increase his fury. Another form of the sport was to fasten the bull to a stake by a long rope and then set bulldogs at him, one at a time, which were trained to seize the bull by the nose. The bulldog seems to have been developed for this sport from a short-eared mastiff called "alaunt."

A good farm consisting of 104 acre tract with 8 room frame dwelling, 3 good barns, 2 room pump station, scales, silo, cement corn crib, large cattle barn and windpump, well drained and fenced with 12 acres of growing alfalfa, located on paved pike just out of the corporation with lowest tax rate in the county. Within 100 yards of traction station, good market and school. If sold in a few days possession can be given at once. We regard this a fine location for a home.

GOOD ADVICE.

All that Circleville needs to start an industrial revival is for its citizens to forget self and join hands in a whole hearted movement in bolstering up industry.

If each person will forget petty personal jealousy, stop knocking and begin to boost in an effective manner the city can easily double its population in five years at the same time doubling the value of every foot of property in the city. Boost, don't knock.

James J. Hinde.

EXAMINATION MUNICIPAL CIVIL SERVICE.

The Municipal Civil Service Commission will hold an examination on WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1923, at 7 o'clock P. M. in the council chamber in the City of Circleville, Ohio, for the positions of: Chief of Police. Patrolman. Chief of Fire Department. Fireman. Blank applications may be secured at the office of the Commission and must be filed with him not later than 7 o'clock P. M. Saturday, October 27, 1923. Circleville Municipal Civil Service Commission. GEO. P. FORESMAN, Secretary. 15octd15.

Youthful Joys.

If dryads ever chose special dwellings it must have been within the boles of walnut trees. If the tree was unknown to old Hellas, then the gods forgot something essential to the happiness of youth. If the ancestors of Pericles and all the heroes of the golden age did not betimes go adventuring for walnuts, acquiring burrs and stone-bruises, then they never knew the joy that comes to the Middle Western lads, who each fading year bear home their treasures to spread on the old kitchen roof to dry. —Exchange.

Hydrocyanic Acid as Fumigant for Pests

Absorbed in Quantities Sufficient to Be Harmful

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Because hydrocyanic acid, in the gaseous form, is used extensively in the United States as a fumigant for the destruction of insects and rodents, it often comes in contact with fruits, vegetables and other foods, and thus may be absorbed in sufficient quantity to be dangerous to man. In recent investigations the bureau of chemistry of the United States Department of Agriculture has determined the quantity of the fumigant which is absorbed and retained by various foodstuffs, all products examined being found to absorb the acid to some extent.

Results of the investigations are given in Department Bulletin 1149, just issued. No conclusions, however, as to the safety of fumigated foods for consumption are drawn in this bulletin. Chemical observations alone are included. Determinations of the quantities of hydrocyanic acid injurious to human health lie in the domain of the pharmacologist.

Those interested in the subject may secure a copy of the bulletin from the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, as long as the supply lasts.

Entirely Dry Fodder Will Make Good Silage

Farmers who do not get their silage made before frost may have good silage if they will utilize the dry fodder for this purpose, according to the live stock men at the New York State College of Agriculture.

Fodder silage not only makes better feed than dry fodder, but it is also more convenient to feed. Even though the corn fodder appears dry and wilted, the stalk will be found to contain considerable moisture. If there is not enough moisture in the corn to pack the corn well in the silo, additional water should be added. By adding this to the fanbox the fan thoroughly distributes the additional water.

Even entirely dry fodder will make good silage, providing the water is added in equal weight to the fodder. In any case, the fodder should be tramped down thoroughly.

Silage made in this manner will keep well. The quality is not quite as good as that made from corn cut while still green and no extra water added, but it makes excellent feed. Silage made from corn fodder, further, is not nearly as sour. It has a pleasant sweet smell and the cows not only like it, but thrive on it as well.

Rye Is Recommended as Economical Swine Feed

The feeding of rye as a substitute for corn in fattening pigs is held by Minnesota experiment station and agricultural extension men to be good economical practice in view of the prevailing market prices for the two cereals.

"As about 102 pounds of rye have given the same results as 100 pounds of corn," says H. G. Zavoral, live stock specialist, "rye at present prices would be the most economical feed. According to Henry & Morrison's 'Feeds and Feeding,' ground rye is worth 94 per cent as much per ton as ground corn for hog feeding.

"Rye is not as palatable as corn and hogs will not consume it as freely. Neither is it as good a feed for horses or cattle as it is for fattening hogs, but by mixing it with more palatable feed, such as corn and oats, it may be satisfactorily fed. It is harder to masticate than some other grains and should be ground or rolled for best results."

Winter Cover Crop Will Afford Soil Protection

A winter cover crop protects the land from washing during the winter months, and at the same time conserves the plant food materials made available during this period. Soil which remains bare during the winter loses much valuable plant food by leaching. A cover crop would make use of this plant food and release it the next spring in time for the crop of cotton or corn to obtain it.

Whenever possible the winter cover crop should be a legume, for legumes are able—by reason of their well-known ability to obtain nitrogen from the air—to increase greatly the store of this element in the soil.

Storing Vegetables for Home Use During Winter

It is to the interest of every family to grow each season a supply of those vegetables suitable for storage, and to see that they are properly stored for use during the winter months when prices are high and vegetables often hard to get. Less work and less expense are involved in storing vegetables than in keeping them by other methods, as canning, drying, and preserving, and the product retains its characteristic flavor much better.

Careful Handling Is of Importance With Apples

Care in handling is of great importance in storing apples. Rough handling results in stem bruises, broken skin and bruised spots. A broken skin gives entrance to blue mold, which develops slowly at a low temperature, but causes considerable deterioration in the fruit.

Hints at Perjury Charges.

New York, Oct. 22.—Mrs. Helen Ellwood Stokes, who is fighting the divorce suit brought by her aged millionaire husband, W. E. D. Stokes, indicated that witnesses who have attempted to besmirch her name will face perjury charges as soon as the present trial is over. There is an insistent rumor that Samuel Untermyer, Mrs. Stokes' chief counsel, has demanded an immediate grand jury investigation of the alleged falsifications by witnesses for Stokes.

AMUSEMENTS

Few persons have been privileged to look upon the Pacific and Atlantic oceans at the same time. When Thomas Meighan's latest Paramount picture, "The Ne'er-Do-Well," is shown at the Met theater tonight and tomorrow and Wednesday, the number will be greatly increased from one of the aeroplane views of the Panama canal featured in the picture gives a view of both oceans.

During the filming of exterior scenes for Rex Beach's novel in Panama, Director Alfred E. Green sent William Miller, cameraman, into the air to get certain scenes of the locks for use in the picture. While at a high altitude, Mr. Miller was able to get a shot which gave a glimpse of both the Atlantic and Pacific.

In making other air views for the picture, seven DeHaviland planes and two Martin bombers, all furnished by the U. S. army in the canal zone and piloted by army fliers, were used. The army officers who helped the Paramount company in making these scenes for "The Ne'er-Do-Well" were Major F. Walsh, Captain Smith, Captain Minter, Captain R. Quinn, Lieutenant Leland Miller, Lieutenant Fred Clark. All of these officers are stationed at France field, canal zone.

In "The Ne'er-Do-Well" Mr. Meighan is seen as the shiftless son of a man of wealth who is disowned by his father after a certain escapade in New York which resulted in the young man being shanghaied on board a steamship bound for Panama where he is left penniless and thrown upon his own meagre resources. Here he meets Chiquita, a beautiful Spanish girl, played by Lila Lee, and their love romance is not only prolific of highly dramatic developments, but ends in the regeneration of the young American ne'er-do-well. The supporting company is excellent.

My dear folks young and old we will a tale unfold that will bring joy and laughs galore; wholesome fun by the ton which keeps gloom on the run and you will laugh until you roar.

Pretty girls, roguish eyes, a glimpse of paradise, nifty dances and costumes rare; a riot of laughter coming right after will drive away gloom and despair. Buy your tickets today, do it now, right away, put on the joyful pleasure skids and glide to the big show where joy is all the go, namely "The Captain and the Kids" made famous by R. Dirks, the originator of "Katzenjammer Kids" which appears at the Grand theater Thursday, October 25.

KILLED WHEN
AUTO UPSET

Life of James Alonzo Hart Was
Crushed Out Sunday Evening.

Accident Happened at Intersection of Williamsport and Jackson Pkcs—Other Occupants of Car Sustained Only Slight Bruises.

A joy ride Sunday evening caused the death of James Hart, aged 22 years, who was killed outright when the car in which he was riding, a Buick six, upset.

The accident happened at the intersection of the Jackson and Williamsport pikes near the home of Joseph Thomas, at the end of the detour on the Williamsport pike.

In the car with him were Harley and Rockford Hart, brothers of the man who lost his life; Pearl Delong and Harry Allen, of Columbus. The Hart boys live with their mother, Mrs. Lillie Hart, on the John Metzger farm in Washington township.

The dead man's remains were brought to this city by Jesse Owens and were taken to the Mader & Eberly undertaking parlors and were viewed by Coroner O. H. Dunton.

The other occupants of the car were only slightly injured. It seems that when the car upset the body of the car caught James Hart and crushed his chest. Pearl Delong was the driver of the car.

James Alonzo Hart was born in Hocking county, November 9, 1901, and was a son of Alfred and Lillie Lowery Hart.

He is survived by his mother, four sisters and two brothers. They are Harley and Rockford Hart; Mrs. Opal Watson and Misses Marvinne and Gladys Hart, of this city, and Mrs. Alma Bookwalter, of Columbus.

The funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the United Brethren church, conducted by Rev. Mr. Hiles. Burial in the cemetery at Darbyville.

LAST TO INVADE ENGLAND

Writer Says John Paul Jones Was
First and Only American to
Forcibly Enter Britain.

A decidedly interesting point is raised by a well-known Chester gentleman who, in a letter, says of John Paul Jones:

"He was the first and the only American officer, in army or navy, to invade Great Britain, and he was the last invader of that country in the world."

Jones carried the torch to England as a British general carried it to the White House at Washington a generation later.

But do not airplanes count as invaders? Many German planes hovered over England and hundreds were killed by bombs dropped from such aircraft.

Buy a piece of real estate and the title reaches up to the sky. I imagine England would assume that anybody who invaded her air space was invading England, which would take from our greatest naval hero the distinction of being the last invader.

Very likely it was meant that Jones was the last man-o'-warman to reach England, and yet German submarine officers might dispute that.—Girard in the Philadelphia Inquirer.

Father of Microscopy.

Father of scientific microscopy is the title given by modern scientists to Anthony van Leeuwenhoek, a native of Delft in Holland, where he died on August 26, 1723. Although without the advantages of a liberal education, Leeuwenhoek was a microscopist of remarkable ability, and many important discoveries were made by him, the chief being undoubtedly that of the capillary circulation of the blood. He first sought to discern this in the comb of a young cock, the ear of a white rabbit, and the membrane of a bat's wing, and failed, but achieved success with the tail of a newly-hatched tadpole, in which, he says, "I could distinctly perceive the whole circuit of the blood in its passage to the extremities of the vessels and its return towards the heart."

Pet Had Various Names.

A neighbor, seeing the seven-year-old daughter of a geologist playing with a bedraggled but cherished kitten, asked what her pet was called. "Well," replied the precocious youngster, "that depends. Father calls her a segregation from an intrusive magma of doubtful genesis; mother refers to her as the basement complex; sister Helen insists that she is a typical example of secondary impoverishment; but I just call her my dear little kitty."

One hundred and sixty-nine people will be given steady employment at the Hinde Paper Box company's new plant. Subscribe now and let us help them get it started.

SOCIAL CALENDAR

At 10:30 o'clock on Saturday morning Miss Helen Leist, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. G. G. Leist, and Mr. Christian Schwarz of this city, were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. E. K. Johnson, of the Methodist Episcopal church performed the ceremony. In the house, bitter-sweet and autumn flowers were used as artistic decorations and the mantel before which the couple stood was covered with asparagus, on one side of which there was a large bow of white tulle; at the other side stood tall baskets filled with beautiful white chrysanthemums and on the mantel there was a candelabra filled with white candles.

The bride, who was unattended, wore a seal brown dress of crepe back satin, trimmed with accordion pleated georgette of the same shade. She wore satin pumps and stockings to match. Her corsage was of sunburst roses.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served. At the bride's table pink dahlias formed the centerpiece and at each place, there was a tiny box containing a piece of the bride's cake. The place cards were decorated with wedding bells. Upon their return from a short honeymoon thru the southern part of the state the couple will reside in Chillicothe, where Mr. Schwarz has a position with the Sears & Nichols Canning Co. The bride and groom are both graduates of Everts high school in the class of 1917, and their marriage is the culmination of a high school friendship.

The out of town guests were Miss Laura Mengert, Miss Jane McCandlish and Mr. and Mrs. George Leist of Columbus; Mrs. John Taylor of Newark and Miss Lucile Haswell and Mr. and Mrs. George Connelly, of Cleveland.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

MURDERER CAPTURED

Charles Brown, colored, slayer of Wilson Davis, colored, was captured at Crestline, Monday morning. Brown shot and killed Davis at a dance at Austin, Ross county, on the night of October 13. Brown wrote to his lady friend in Chillicothe to send him some money as he was broke. It was thru this letter that his whereabouts was made known.

Never Surrender.

The particular things which we do, the particular efforts we make, often seem to fail; but it is the perpetual struggle, the everlasting trying, the constant pushing, that count, and that develop men and women of unconquerable spirit.—The New Success.

SMALL BLAZE.

Someone threw a burning match into some oil in the gutter in front of the Crist building near the Ferris wheel Saturday night; alarm number twelve was turned in. The police department stopped the fire department apparatus, before they tore thru the crowd down Court street as the fire was of no consequence and was quickly extinguished.

Conscience Money.

There are some conscientious people left and some of the amounts paid are large. The record was set up in 1843 by a man who sent $70,000 to the chancellor of the exchequer, explaining it represented illicit gains of a lifetime of smuggling.

PUMPKIN SHOW RECORDS.

Wonderful Displays of Field, Orchard, Garden, Dairy and Kitchen Viewed by Many Thousands--Big Parades Were Features of Twentieth Fall Festival--As Usual the Showing of Babies, Our Best Crop, Was the Center of Interest--Everybody Worked Hard and Success Was the Reward--List of Prize Winners.

With many thousands of people crowded into the business section of the city on Main street from Pickaway Scioto and on Court from High to round and with automobiles parked almost every bit of available space all the streets and alleys, Circleville's Pumpkin Show closed Saturday night in a blaze of glory, and will go down in history as the most successful ever put on by the merchants of the city.

This is a quiet town now without the din, the clatter of the big brass drum, the call of the show barker and the loud stand concessionaire and the loud smell of the onionized hamburger.

The heaviest pumpkin weighed 75 pounds. W. H. Stout is guilty of raising this monster and he was awarded first prize.

The heaviest squash was raised by J. M. Grabill and this piece of vegetation weighed exactly 101 pounds and ten ounces. It is four feet in length and three feet in circumference.

These mammoth productions of the soil excite much comment and go to show that the land of old Pickaway has not been exhausted.

In the corn section the sweepstakes display was captured by A. C. Cupp, of Wayne township, on the best ten ears. His variety was the Silver King.

The tallest cornstalk measured sixteen feet and two and one-half inches and was grown by Raymond Anderson.

The longest ear of corn was 13 1/2 inches in length and was raised by J. Baxter Anderson.

The heaviest ear of corn weighed one pound and fifteen ounces and was grown by Marcus Owens.

The parades; Industrial, Baby, Automobile, Comic and Characterization, were all great features; but, as usual, the procession of the little tots attracted the most attention and received the highest praise.

In the Industrial parade there were twenty entries. A vast deal of time was expended and much artistic work was done in preparing the floats for this parade. The procession of floats was a reminder that the merchants and the utility companies are keenly alive to the worth of advertising and also to the city's commercial interests.

The Industrial parade consisted of seventeen floats. The prize winners were; First, The Citizens Telephone company; second, The Seitz Music Shop; third, The Pickaway Lumber company. The judges were; Mrs. Howard Wiseman, of Marshalltown, Iowa; Mrs. Harold Clarke, of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, and Mrs. L. O. Crumpler, of Danville, Virginia.

The furniture on the first prize winner was loaned by H. G. Stevenson, the West Main street furniture dealer.

The Comic and Characterization parade was, in itself, a carnival, so gorgeous and colorful was its makeup. The grotesque was coupled with the comic in such a way that it would make a master hand to describe the costumes properly. Who would think of a makeup of a half groom and half bride, but Miss Ollie Sockrider, who won the first prize, or the Colonial Dame put on by Mrs. Christy Voll, and Miss Pumpkin Show by Miss Blanche Young? "Jack in the Box" was an appropriate makeup put on by little Jack Foreman. These were first four prize winners in the Characterization division in the order named.

In the Comic section, Miss Anna Dresbach and Mrs. Edwin Wilson won first prize, representing Mr. and Mrs. Doolittle and Mrs. Ed. Shanton represented Aunt Dinah. The Dry Detective was excellently portrayed by Roy Henn, while Mrs. Claude Ankrom and Miss Florence Willoughby represented the numerous Brown family. The prizes were awarded in the order given above.

The automobile parade was most interesting and attracted a great deal of attention. It was divided into two sections, the first consisting of new cars and the second of old ones. Each new car was driven by the most attractive young lady available and she chose as her passengers other attractive young ladies.

In this section, the basis for judging was fifty per cent for the most beautiful driver and fifty per cent for the most attractive car. In case of a tie or if in doubt; that is, if a judge could not agree with himself, he could take into consideration the passengers in the cars.

In the new car division were the following:

Miss Vera Walters driving a Ford sedan.

Mrs. Frank H. Smith, Chevrolet sedan.

Mrs. Frank Kline Jr., Gray coach.

Miss Opal Reichelderfer, Overland Champion.

Miss Helen Bennett, Jewett sedan.

Mrs. Joe Noecker Jr., Paige sedan.

Miss Marie Reichelderfer, Jordan.

Miss Bernadine Lutz, Studebaker sedan.

Miss Miriam Ruggles, Cadillac sedan.

Mrs. Coit Blacker, Essex coach.

Miss Mary Pickens, Sport Model Buick touring car.

Mrs. Harry Clifton, Buick coupe.

Miss Mary Newton, Packard touring car.

Miss Alys Seitz, Chalmers sedan.

The prize in this section was given to the Cadillac car driven by Miss Miriam Ruggles. The local dealer is G. L. Schiear.

The second section, made up of good, bad, indifferent, broken down and worse cars, excited the risibilities of the onlookers and made a decided hit.

The old cars were judged on three points; old age, dilapidated appearance and poor running condition.

In this section the prize was awarded to Number 10, a Ford of the vintage of 1913, which was driven by Ernest May.

The entries in this section were as follows:

R. L. Brehmer drove a 1900 Model A Ford.

George Dennis, Chevrolet, Model D ("D" for Dilapidated.)

George Burns, 1907 Flanders, predecessor of the modern Studebaker.

Clarence Barnes, earliest model car with self-strater. It was a Cadillac.

Roy Young, old Packard, 1916.

Earl Fletcher, early Overland.

Bernard Kegg, Coast to Coast Gray.

John James, Hupmobile.

Mason Young, Jordan.

Ernst May, a Ford.

The following prizes were awarded:

Valuable Thimbles.
All over the world the thimble is a symbol of industry. Fashion in thimbles is very luxurious in the East. Wealthy Chinese ladies have thimbles carved out of mother-of-pearl, and sometimes the top is a single precious stone. Thimbles with an agate or onyx mounted in gold are often seen, as well as thimbles encrusted with rubies. The queen of Siam possesses a thimble in the form of a lotus-bud, with her name exquisitely worked in tiny diamonds round the margin.

DANCE WITH DORIS

By DOROTHY DOUGLAS

(© 1923, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

TOMMY WEBSTER called himself every known kind of an idiot, but it didn't help matters in the least.

He was in love with a girl whom he had not met and never expected to meet, for she was a girl who danced in one of the famous "Revue." It was called dancing, but it was in reality just floating about the stage like an exquisite bit of thistledown.

Tommy hated the audience for their wild and noisy applause that clamored for Doris until she slipped out time and time again to bow her pretty thanks and kiss her snow-white fingers. He knew she must be weary and it annoyed Tommy that she must stand there with that sparkling smile on her lips and in her eyes the joy of great conquest for that noisy public to admire.

If Doris Deene had been a little nonentity on the stage he might have made an effort to become acquainted with her and win her away from her profession, but to one who seemed destined to reach the height of her profession Tommy felt the odds too much against him.

So he had decided that the best thing for him to do was to forget Doris.

It was not going to be easy. Tommy was not the kind of man who loves often and lightly. And Doris, the fluffy bit of white thistledown, with her fair curls and laughing blue eyes, drifted through all his dreams, clinging, beautifully appealing.

So, before taking up his office career in the great steel business of his father, Tommy started on a six months' travel cure and made up his mind that he would return to New York heart and fancy free.

Tommy reached England during the month of June. The days were a bit dull, but the change to glorious sunshine made Ascot, the Derby and the river life a thing of joy. He learned to punt up and down the river quite like an old hand and met many a charming, gaily-decked damsel with whom he passed sundry and varied hours.

It was Ethel Danvers who, while reclining gracefully among various hued cushions at the other end of his punt, who asked him if he was going to the theatrical garden party.

"Sure. I have to see everything I can in the next month and then work, endless, but interesting, work for me. I'll take you and we'll do all the stunts they have to offer. Is it a go?"

"Sure!" laughed Ethel, mocking his American expression.

So it was that Tommy found himself in the Royal hospital grounds at Chelsea enjoying himself immensely. Every type of girl, in every type of garb, from modern Eve to ancient Turkey and all the stars and minor constellations of the stage were there.

Ethel was beginning to think she might spend the rest of her days at Tommy's side, when, standing in front of a dance club which they were about to enter, she felt his arm tighten against his side.

He was reading over the list of stage favorites with whom one could have a fox trot for half a crown, but only one name stood out to Tommy in bold relief—Doris Deene.

He tried to make his voice sound natural as he turned to Ethel.

"Are these names all famous over here? I—I don't know many of your English stars by name."

Ethel read the list. "All pretty much in the public eye. That Doris Deene is from your part of the world and has taken us quite by storm with her dancing. Come on, let's go in. I'd just love to dance once with Jack Buchanan and you try for Doris. I fancy she'd love to chat with some one from home."

So together they went in. Ethel was out on the floor with the tall Jack before Tommy could make his way to Doris.

It was she who began to talk. "I am from New York," said Tommy, feeling like a first-class fool for the shake in his voice. "I used to watch you dance nearly three nights out of the week—a bit soft, wasn't it?"

Doris looked up and smiled straight into Tommy's eyes.

"Oh, I am glad to meet you," she said wistfully. "I'm so homesick for New York and home folks that I could just cry about it." She shyly glanced again at the big, honest boy and knew she liked him—liked him very, very much. "I wonder—I wonder if you would come out to see me some time and just take me out on a bus or up the river or—or, just any place away from theaters? I don't like dancing, but I have to earn my living some way. Could you?"

"Doris Deene," said Tommy, softly, with all his awkwardness gone, "I could do anything on the face of the earth that you ask. We'll have a picnic up the river Sunday—all to ourselves, and every day that you spare me we will lunch together. I am sailing for home on the 27th, and if I can manage to tell you heaps of things that I have wanted to tell you long before this—perhaps you will sail back too."

Tommy Webster had never expected to have his picture in the London papers, but when he sailed away with the famous little dancer—Doris Deene—as his wife it was no wonder the London papers were full of his name.

"Tough as Hickory."
"Tough as hickory" is a phrase suggesting the peculiar strength and elasticity of the hickory wood and it may be for that reason your favorite. Gen. Andrew Jackson was endearingly called "Old Hickory" by his soldiers because of his tough, unyielding disposition. This nickname may have been bestowed during the war with the Creek Indians in 1813, when he fed his men on hickory nuts over a period when they were short of rations.

The Spider.

We gave some perfunctory admiration to the landscape, which is indeed only beautiful to those who admire land, and to them perhaps the most beautiful in England. For here is the body of the great chalk spider who straddles over our island—whose legs are the south downs and the north downs and the Chilterns, and the tips of whose toes poke out at Crozer and Dover. He is a clean creature, who grows as few trees as he can, and those few in tidy clumps, and he loves to be tickled by quickly flowing streams. He is plumped all over with earthworks, for from the beginning of time men have fought for the privilege of standing on him, and the oldest of our temples is built upon his back.—E. M. Forster, in "The Celestial Omnibus."

Deserts Not Without Water.

The vast stretches lying between the Sierra Nevada and California and the eastern Cordilleran ranges (Rocky mountains) in the United States, and between the Pacific ocean and the eastern Sierra Madre of Mexico, constitute the great American desert, is superficially waterless. Its plains are usually barren of surface water save for an exceptional saline lagoon. Notwithstanding the apparent scarcity of water, one of the most remarkable features of the great American desert is that water has been secured often in apparently impossible places and in quantities that have made possible the existence of cities and industries, says the Detroit News.

Fish Has a Nasal Pocket.

Fishes possess a smelling faculty. An examination of the nostrils of a fish, reveals the fact that they are not connected with the air tube system, as in most animals, but lead into blind pockets lined with delicate membranes well supplied with nerves. In fishes water is not drawn through the nostrils, but merely into the small pockets, and these may be emptied and refilled, says the Detroit News. The quantity of water brought into contact with the nerves of smell must be comparatively small. In some few fishes, as in the globe fishes and puffers, for example, there is no nasal pocket, the nerves being directed into external processes.

Diet Affects Bird Colors.

By varying the diet of birds, Professor Ehrenreich of Berlin has succeeded in changing the coloring of their feathers. Certain foods will cause red and green parrots to turn yellow. His experiments tend to show that a bird's plumage depends largely on the dyestuffs contained in food, says the Detroit News. Dyestuffs put in chicken feed affects the hue of egg yolks to a considerable degree. Caterpillars fed exclusively on walnut foliage become dark butterflies. Indians have long understood the art of changing the color of living birds through the diet method.

Men's Souls Are Tricky Things.

As a matter of precaution I would advise women to leave the souls of men alone, especially their adolescent souls. They consist entirely of amorphous spiritual substances. They have as many rings of sentiment and vaporous eloquence around them as the planet Saturn. It is easy to guide one of the pulpy things into the church; but when you have done it you do not know whether you have committed a blessing or an act of salvation.—Cora Harris in the Saturday Evening Post.

Haddon Hall.

Haddon Hall is a famous mansion in Derbyshire, England, 23 miles northwest of Derby, which has been occupied successfully by the Arenells, Vernons, and Rutlands. The building is in an excellent state of preservation, and represents three different orders of architecture—the Pointed Gothic, the Tudor, and the Elizabethan. No additions to the structure have been made since the sixteenth century. Reference to Haddon Hall is made in Sir Walter Scott's "Peveril of the Peak."

Animals Frozen for Centuries.

The Smithsonian institution says that cadavers, or bodies, of the northern mastodon and the hairy rhinoceros have been found in the ice of Siberia. Wolves, dogs and bears are said to have eaten of the frozen flesh as it thawed out. Small portions of the muscular tissues, skin covered with hair, stomach contents, etc., of one of these frozen specimens of the mammoth are on exhibition in the United States National museum.

Goats and Women.

According to the ancient records of York county, preserved in the courthouse at Alfred, Me., goats and women were not allowed on the isles of Shoals. One fisherman brought his wife there, at the same time importing some goats. Lengthy legal battles were waged concerning the matter. Finally it was settled that the goats must go but the wife could stay.

Mixed Situation.

Dashaway—"You say your sister will be down in a minute, Willie? That's good news. I thought perhaps she wanted to be excused, as she did the other day." Willie—"Not this time. I played a trick on her." Dashaway—"What did you do?" Willie—"I said you were another fellow!"—London Tit-Bits.

Electric Lamps.

The average amount of light obtained for 1 cent from incandescent electric lamps at first was about one candle power hour, but it is now possible to obtain with the ordinary 40 watt lamp 170-candle power hours for a cent.

BRUTAL ASSAULT

Miss Georgia Stout Struck Near Her Home Saturday Night.

Miss Georgia Stout was waylaid within a hundred feet of her home on West Mill street Saturday evening about 5:45 o'clock by stranger, as she was returning from the office of Dr. Gay L. Hitler, the dentist, where she is employed as assistant.

Miss Stout was assaulted twice. The first time the blow he struck was a glancing one on the head and the second, was squarely on top of her head and produced a cut several inches in length. When the first blow was struck Miss Stout did not see the man, but she turned when he struck her again and she was nearly felled to the ground. She screamed and ran to her home not far away. Dr. A. W. Holman was summoned and attended to her injuries.

The police department was notified but were unable to secure the assailant as Miss Stout could give but a very meager description of him. She said he was a tall, white man.

Altho Miss Stout carried a purse, no attempt was made to rob her. She thinks her assailant followed her from Court street to near her home on West Mill near Scioto.

Detective Creedon, of Columbus, who was in the city is of the opinion that the man who struck Miss Stout must be demented as a similar assault occurred in Columbus some time since and the police department were never able to secure a trace of the assailant.

Miss Stout's condition is now good and she seems to be recovering nicely. She is at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Stout.

PINCHOT ISSUES STATEMENT

Points Out How Illegal Liquor Selling May Be Checked.

WOULD STRIKE AT THE SOURCE

Pennsylvania Governor Again Places Responsibility For Dry Law Enforcement on the Federal Government—Says Governors' Conference Failed to Discuss Details of How to Enforce the Law.

Washington, Oct. 22.—Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania, whose unexpected silence featured the white house conference of governors, spoke his mind in a formal statement placing upon the federal government the burden of responsibility for prohibition enforcement.

Mr. Pinchot in effect reiterated the position taken publicly a week ago, when he placed the enforcement problem squarely upon the shoulders of President Coolidge.

The governor asserted that the president's conference Saturday failed to discuss the practical details of how to enforce the law. He then pointed out how, in his opinion, the selling of illegal domestic liquor can be dried up, adding that "the present orgy of lawlessness is utterly unnecessary." His statement continued:

"The main sources of the present flood of illegal drink are breweries, alcohol producing plants, liquor in bond and smuggling. Smuggling can be dealt with only by the national government. It is a problem by itself. Breweries and alcohol producing plants can not operate or deliver their products except under federal permit, while liquor in bond is wholly controlled as to its safe-keeping, transportation and release by federal permits.

"In the matter of permits the federal government, as Commissioner Haynes well says, is solely responsible and the states can not help. If the federal government would write into each of its permits to manufacture, transport, store or utilize alcoholic liquids certain simple conditions, it would make law-breaking so difficult as to be practically impossible under anything short of actual collusion between law-breakers and the enforcement officials.

"I do not suggest that Pennsylvania or any other state should be relieved of any part of its duty in law enforcement, but the states should not be compelled to pick up the bird shot scattered all over the floor by the failure of the federal government to check the flood of illegal liquor at its source.

"When the federal government uses its power over permits as here suggested, when it takes the enforcement service out of politics and raises it to a higher level, the flood of illegal liquor will be stopped at the source, and the whisky rebellion will be over."

Among the conditions which Mr. Pinchot would have written into the permits are: Revocation of the permit when the permittee is caught violating the law; supervision of manufacture and access to all parts of the plant day or night by state and national enforcement officers; products to be shipped only at specified times and only after inspection and stamping at the plant.

BREAKS WITH BERLIN

Bavaria Determined Not to Be Dictated to by Stresemann.

Munich, Oct. 22.—War is on between the dictator of north Germany and the dictator of south Germany. The mental attitudes of north and south Germany are so diametrically different on vital domestic issues and foreign policies that an amicable settlement in the abnormal atmosphere is out of the question. Bavaria is determined not to be dictated to by the northern dictator, this being emphasized by a proclamation of Bavarian Dictator Von Kahr following a council of ministers severing the national army in Bavaria from the army of the rest of Germany, creating a "Bavarian reichswehr." As further defiance, Kahr as dictator has appointed Von Lossow, whom Ebert through Stresemann ordered dismissed from the service, as commander of the Bavarian troops. The national army units in Bavaria, probably not exceeding 15,000, has taken the Bavarian oath of allegiance.

DICTATOR'S WORDS

Bavaria Has No Intention of Seceding From Germany.

Munich, Oct. 22.—"Bavaria has not separated from Germany. Bavaria has no intention of doing any such thing. Bavaria simply refuses to be the goat for the Berlin government just because the Berlin government needed a goat to please the socialists and communists."

These statements were made by Bavarian Dictator Von Kahr. He continued: "Bavaria has not severed diplomatic relations with Berlin. Bavaria considers itself the citadel of German national thought from which our new Germany shall grow. Bavaria is national against all the sovietism and the international Marxists, destructive elements. We have recalled our minister from Saxony because Bavaria does not want to be represented in a state the government of which denies all principles of state authority."

FISHER'S SPEECH STIRS OFFICIALS

Urged American Participation in European Affairs.

SPEAKS BEFORE WAR COLLEGE

Professor Directly Opposed the Views Held by President Coolidge and Cabinet and Suggested Connection of International Indebtedness With the Reparations Problem—Speech Resented by Officials.

Washington, Oct. 22.—A storm was aroused here by the publication of the news that Professor Irving Fisher of Yale university had presented his plea for American participation in European affairs before students attending the United States army war college, where the war department trains its highest officers.

Invited to speak before the college, it was learned, Dr. Fisher delivered an address directly in opposition to the policies followed by the American government under two administrations. Major General Hanson E. Ely, commandant of the college, presided, while the professor regretted American nonparticipation in the league of nations.

Colonel George S. Simmonds, assistant commandant, introduced Dr. Fisher to the assembled officers and led the general discussion which followed the professor's advocacy of a "business-like schedule for all international debts," so that bankers could float new loans for financing France and Germany.

Dr. Fisher, it was revealed, directly opposed the views held by President Coolidge and Secretary of State Hughes, and insisted upon connecting international indebtedness with the reparations problem.

Administration leaders openly resented the idea of allowing Dr. Fisher the opportunity to urge before army officers the adoption of a policy which has been held to clash directly with the administration's course. Those who have opposed foreign entanglements were frank in their denunciation of what they characterized as internationalism preached to the very men who stand charged with the national defense.

The association of Dr. Fisher's ideas with an established government institution like the war college, it was pointed out, is particularly untimely under existing conditions.

CHARGE WHAT COAL TRAFFIC WILL BEAR

Anthracite Goes Through Hands of Several Wholesalers.

Washington, Oct. 22.—Forty per cent of the anthracite coal of domestic sizes passes through the hands of two or more wholesalers between the producer and the retailer or consumer, the federal trade commission revealed.

The margins realized by wholesalers on 12 per cent of this coal exceed 90 cents per ton; on 17 per cent the margins are 75 cents; on 37 per cent from 50 to 70 cents, and on the remaining 34 per cent from 20 to 40 cents a ton.

"Margins of 75 cents and more per ton are clearly characteristic of a speculative market, and are the result of wholesalers charging what the traffic will bear," the commission declares, adding: "The margin of 25 cents per ton appears to be rather generally recognized as the margin taken by wholesalers regularly handling coal from the large producing companies, which usually impose some profit limitations upon wholesalers handling their coal."

Thus it appears that the consumer pays two, three and four times the standard margin to wholesalers on two-thirds of the domestic anthracite consumed, and that on almost one-third of this coal they exact three and four times the standard return through speculative manipulation of the market. The figures of the trade commission are based on a survey of anthracite shipments for the week ending Sept. 22.

DOINGS IN OHIO

Gas and Oil Men Meet.

Columbus, Oct. 22.—The Ohio Gas and Oil Men's association opened its annual convention here today. "Transition from Natural to Manufactured Gas" was the subject of an address by Dana J. Demorest, professor of metallurgy, engineering experiment station, Ohio State university. He told the association what can be done, or must be done, with present equipment when it becomes necessary to supply manufactured gas and how to enrich manufactured gas with the remaining supply of natural gas that may be available.

Fatal Shooting Affray.

Akron, O., Oct. 22.—M. (Slim) Webb, 42, a race horse trainer of Clinton, Mo., is under arrest here and Peter S. Callen of Toronto and F. W. Gerhardt of Detroit, race track judges, are fatally wounded as the result of a shooting affray in the lobby of the Portage hotel. The shooting was the climax of a quarrel between the trainer and the judges, which came after Webb was suspended on charges of "fixing" a race at Northampton park.

Circular Held Scurrilous.

Alliance, O., Oct. 22.—E. L. Walker of Cleveland, brother of Dr. O. C. Walker, who was murdered Sept. 28, 1921, was brought to this city to answer to a charge of being responsible for the distribution of a scurrilous circular in Alliance. The circular attacked Dr. W. H. McMaster, president of Mount Union college and foreman of the special grand jury appointed by Attorney General Crabbe last April to investigate the murder.

Bandit Shot.

Cleveland, Oct. 22.—An unidentified man is in a hospital here with a bullet wound near the heart. He was shot by his companion after the two had held up a restaurant and were making away with the cash box containing about $100. Police believe the shot was fired to deter pursuit by the restaurant employees and that the bullet went wild.

Three Cars in Collision.

Canton, O., Oct. 22.—S. S. Trump, 50, was killed and seven others were injured when three automobiles crashed six miles north of this city. Trump and Sam Garris were driving the machines into which a third car, said to have been driven by Justin Treisch, crashed when the driver was adjusting his headlights.

Shot by Young Stepson.

Cleveland, Oct. 22.—Edward Graves, 39, was shot and fatally wounded. Police are holding his 8-year-old stepson, Colt Perkins, as the one who fired the shot. Graves quarreled with his wife during a birthday party in their home, the boy told police, declaring he shot only when his stepfather had attacked his mother.

Youths Bound Over.

Marysville, O., Oct. 22.—Leo Jewell, high school senior, and Roland Mills, both of whom are 18 years old, were bound over to the grand jury in the sum of $2,500 here on a charge of robbing the Earl Hammer restaurant. Both went to jail when unable to furnish bond.

Workman Fatally Hurt.

Chillicothe, O., Oct. 22.—Caught between two rolls of paper at a local paper mill, Lewis Huber, machine tender, was so badly crushed that he died of internal hemorrhages.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has donated $10,000 to University of Pennsylvania to provide insulin treatment for public ward and dispensary patients suffering from diabetes.

SEPARATISTS SEIZE CITIES

Rhineland Republic Proclaimed at Aix La Chapelle.

TROOPS MOVING ON COLOGNE

French Occupational Forces Reported to Have Maintained Strict Impartiality, but Are Believed to Be in Sympathy With Movement—Rhineland Population Reduced Almost to Starvation and May Not Resist.

Paris, Oct. 22.—The Rhineland republic has been proclaimed at Aix la Chapelle and the Rhinish troops are moving on Cologne.

One thousand troops proceeding from Aachen to Dusseldorf have proclaimed a republic at the latter city.

A report from Aachen headquarters states that the republic extends throughout the entire Belgian zone and includes Mayence, Coblenz, Wiesbaden and Duisberg.

While the French occupational forces ostensibly maintained strict impartiality regarding the movement for the new republic, the proclamation could not possibly have been carried out, it is declared here, without the protection of allied bayonets, as only a minority of the Rhineland population favor separation from Germany.

The result will be either anarchy and civil war in Germany, or the constitution of a new "buffer state," like Luxembourg, between France and Germany, with France dominating the Rhine, as Germany before the war dominated Luxembourg.

The Rhinish troops having captured Aix la Chapelle without a shot are now marching on Cologne, which is in the British occupied zone and which is also the headquarters of the anti-separatists.

The Rhineland population, including the people of the Ruhr, it is realized, have been reduced almost to starvation, and may acquiesce peacefully in the creation of a state which has the support of only a small minority. On the other hand, it is recalled, the proclamation of a separate state at Ludwigshafen four years ago survived only four days, although it had French backing. At that time the workmen immediately proclaimed a general strike and forced a withdrawal of those supporting the French plan.

The workmen in the Rhineland are regarded as constituting the most nationalist group within the territory occupied by the allies. Economic conditions have changed since the workers defeated the French designs four years ago, but some protest move against the present proclamation is fully expected.

The proclamation at Aix la Chapelle, it is felt, is certain to aggravate the situation in Bavaria and Saxony. If the Rhineland population and the Berlin government both prove powerless in the face of French domination, developments will strengthen the hands of the separatists in Munich and Dresden.

4,000 ON HUNGER STRIKE

Irish Republican Prisoners Reported to Be Refusing Food.

Dublin, Oct. 22.—From Mountjoy prison where 400 republican prisoners have been reported as hunger strikers, the hunger striking has now spread to many other prisons where the Free State government is detaining captured irregulars. Republican leaders now declare that there are 4,000 of their comrades in Free State prisons who are refusing food. The situation is really serious for the government, as it is feared that if even one prisoner dies the whole country may again be plunged into trouble. President Cosgrave, speaking in front of the old Irish parliament house, said: "If the prisoners were really hunger striking it might be different but there is a lot of bluff about these 'trikes'."

Sisler to Manage Browns.

St. Louis, Oct. 22.—George Sisler, former first baseman of the St. Louis Americans, has been signed to manage the Browns, according to an announcement by Business Manager Bill Friel upon his return from New York.

Victim of Auto Accident.

Canton, O., Oct. 22.—James V. McCann, for eight years a member of the editorial staff of the Canton Daily News, died in Mercy hospital from injuries received in an automobile accident.

MORO BAND IN REVOLT

Armed With Rifles and Cannon and Running Amuck in Hills.

Manila, Oct. 22.—Captain Butierrez and the governor of Colbati have telegraphed Governor Leonard Wood that 290 Moro fanatics, armed with 45 rifles and several brass cannons, are running amuck in the mountains of Clabati province. Governor Wood was advised that only 140 constabulary soldiers and nine officers are available there to put down the uprising. General Rafael Crame, chief of the Philippine constabulary, has advised Colonel Walee that 150 additional constabulary troops are in readiness at Manila to proceed to Mindanao if it is considered necessary to help to subdue the Moro fanatics in that province. Colonel Walee has been advised by General Crame to take 75 men from Zamboanga and an equal number from other nearby places to Lanao to assist in fighting the fanatics.

Wood in New Clash.

Manila, Oct. 22.—A new clash between Governor General Leonard Wood and the leaders of the Philippine legislature has occurred over the management of the Manila railroad to fill the vacancy created by the death of Colonel McCoy. Governor Wood insists that an American must be appointed, while Manuel Quezon and Senor Roxas are just as insistent that a Filipino be appointed to fill the office of manager.

VISITS LINCOLN CABIN

Lloyd George Makes Trip Into Hardin County, Kentucky.

Louisville, Oct. 22.—Former Premier David Lloyd George continued his explorations into the early life and history of Abraham Lincoln by making a 60-mile trip into Hardin county to see the log cabin in which Lincoln was born. Dame Margaret George accompanied her husband. At Hodgenville, the end of the rail journey, a large crowd was waiting. Lloyd George was first escorted to the statue of Lincoln in the center of the village. The statue portrays Lincoln in a sitting posture. Lloyd George stood at the base of the statue a long while in rapt study of the chiseled features. A group of children sang the national anthems of England and America and Lloyd George was presented with Lincoln souvenirs and a large bouquet.

Many New Weaves, Elegant Patterns

Old Materials Predominate, Though Offered Under New Names.

The matter of textiles is, this year, of the utmost importance, asserts a fashion writer in the New York Times. The weaves are new and many, the patterns attractive. Some that have new names are but old materials of proven virtues. The desire of most women is for softness of texture, for luxury in brocades—silk, wool or metal. Many of the designs belong to the elegance of toiles in earlier days and the color combinations shown are both subtle and daring.

The advance of art in the looms is evident in some of the latest fabrics. Kasha, of which so much is promised, is the euphonious name of our old friend camel's hair—the unwrinkleable, long-haired kind. There was never a dress material more refined, more graceful and altogether satisfactory—more distinctly the cloth for fashioning a lady's gown. It comes now in hues such as we never dreamed of in its original manufacture. Kasha is especially liked for one-piece gowns, the coat dress or the draped model. It appears in some of the handsomest

BY ROE FULKERSON

"Pretty cold for garden parties, ain't it?" asked the House Detective.

"Kelly," answered the girl, "I was speaking in metaphor. The idea I was trying to get into your bean is that every time I think I am jake, somebody crabs the party. Every time I get floating on a pink cloud in a magenta sky somebody comes along and pulls in the cloud for fear it will rain."

"Last night I went to a progressive peanut party. I got along fine altho I don't know how to play peanut and somebody had to play my hand at every table."

"At the third table I met a guy with eyes like a cow, surrounded by lashes as long as kolinski fur. He was lucky enough to look like a poet, while fortunate enough to have a good, steady job as boss of a construction gang. "I set my azure orbs to work on him and he began to follow me around, like a pup following a child with a sandwich. I had just made up my mind that my long search for home and for happiness was at an end, and that I was due to pick honeysuckle off the trellis at the front step and hum a merry tune as I waited in my fresh gingham dress for my nice husband, when a woman came along and told him he would have to beat it back home, because she had forgotten to empty the refrigerator pan, and it would run all over the kitchen, if he didn't get there quick."

"That guy was the most married man I have seen in a long, long time. He lit out from there like a ladybug does when you tell her to fly away, that her house is on fire and her children are burning up. That was what made me say I never loved a fond gazelle but what it fell buttered side down."

Simple Filter to Clean Oil.
As a means of separating dirt, metal dust, etc., from used oil, the filter which may be made in the following manner will be found very efficient: Fasten a piece of muslin or cotton cloth to a metal or wooden ring large enough to fit over the top of a can, drum or other vessel. The cloth should be left a little slack and into the shallow bag so formed a quantity of sawdust is placed. The oil to be filtered is poured through and leaves its foreign matter behind in the sawdust.

Bull Baiting.

This was a sport once popular in England, but declared illegal in 1835. A bull was attacked by dogs, and sometimes the nostrils of the bull were blown full of pepper to increase his fury. Another form of the sport was to fasten the bull to a stake by a long rope and then set bulldogs at him, one at a time, which were trained to seize the bull by the nose. The bulldog seems to have been developed for this sport from a short-eared mastiff called "alaunt."

GOOD ADVICE.

All that Circleville needs to start an industrial revival is for its citizens to forget self and join hands in a whole hearted movement in bolstering up industry.

If each person will forget petty personal jealousy, stop knocking and begin to boost in an effective manner the city can easily double its population in five years at the same time doubling the value of every foot of property in the city. Boost, don't knock.

Youthful Joys.

If dryads ever chose special dwellings it must have been within the boles of walnut trees. If the tree was unknown to old Hellas, then the gods forgot something essential to the happiness of youth. If the ancestors of Pericles and all the heroes of the golden age did not betimes go adventuring for walnuts, acquiring burrs and stone-bruises, then they never knew the joy that comes to the Middle Western lads, who each fading year bear home their treasures to spread on the old kitchen roof to dry.—Exchange.

Dress of Black Kasha Cloth, Trimmed With Vivid Colored Embroidery.

styles for street wear and for indoors, its fluffy softness yielding to graceful, draped lines.

Departing from plain colors, several striking gowns of kasha have been received by a prominent New York couturier. One is done in cinnamon brown, of which the upper part of the dress is made, down to the line of the hip. The bodice has slight coat revers at the neck and straight, wrist-length sleeves. The waist, unbelted, hangs away in an eon jacket effect. The skirt, straight and narrow, has a border more than knee depth of the cloth woven in a bold pattern combining the Greek key and Egyptian characters, in brilliant orange, brown and gray. A strip of this gaudy border is sewn across the back of the neck, like a shallow sailor collar. The composition is bold, but no crudeness is evident and the result is fetching.

Matelasse is the original material beloved of our grandmothers, and is therefore an absolute novelty to the present generation. It is a brocade in wool or silk of fine weave, richness and dignity. It is happily adapted to the latest styles for afternoon, to be trimmed with fur or worn with a fur scarf. Matelasse will be shown in some Russian tunics and in soft-line wraps. The two-tone character of the cloth gives scope for numerous color combinations, some of which are very beautiful. Marigold and henna, brown and orange, tan and gray, green and gray, green and blue are among the most charming. Poirer twill endures and duve de pache, a fine variety of duvetyn; the two-sided crepe, charmeuse, poplins and velvet, for which a tremendous vogue is predicted.

Every woman knows the flattering quality of a velvet gown, especially in black, for daytime or evening, and almost any sort of frock fashioned of velvet gives the wearer a dressy appearance. A new velvet is the erect pile, having no nap, and may be cut either way. The browns from Havana to seal, are much liked for coat dresses and three-piece suits, successfully trimmed with fur or embroidery. Velvets in evening colors are being shown in most enchanting shades—nile green, apple green, pea green, sapphire, gobein blue, hydrangea, hyacinth, orange, amber, gold, flame, rose, mulberry, coral, apricot, orchid, violet, mauve.

For the Small Girl.
Many women enjoy cross-stitching as a pastime, and little dresses for very small girls stamped with exceedingly good design to be worked in red and blue are well worth the time expended upon them.

On Dark Blue Crepe.
For fall a most attractive child's dress is of dark blue crepe de chine, with touches of cross-stitching across the shoulders of the raglan sleeves.

NOW IS TIME TO HELP.

Absorbed in Quantities Sufficient to Be Harmful

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Because hydrocyanic acid, in the gaseous form, is used extensively in the United States as a fumigant for the destruction of insects and rodents, it often comes in contact with fruits, vegetables and other foods, and thus may be absorbed in sufficient quantity to be dangerous to man. In recent investigations the bureau of chemistry of the United States Department of Agriculture has determined the quantity of the fumigant which is absorbed and retained by various foodstuffs, all products examined being found to absorb the acid to some extent.

Results of the investigations are given in Department Bulletin 1149, just issued. No conclusions, however, as to the safety of fumigated foods for consumption are drawn in this bulletin. Chemical observations alone are included. Determinations of the quantities of hydrocyanic acid injurious to human health lie in the domain of the pharmacologist.

Those interested in the subject may secure a copy of the bulletin from the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, as long as the supply lasts.

Entirely Dry Fodder Will Make Good Silage

Farmers who do not get their silage made before frost may have good silage if they will utilize the dry fodder for this purpose, according to the live stock men at the New York State College of Agriculture.

Fodder silage not only makes better feed than dry fodder, but it is also more convenient to feed. Even though the corn fodder appears dry and wilted, the stalk will be found to contain considerable moisture. If there is not enough moisture in the corn to pack the corn well in the silo, additional water should be added. By adding this to the fanbox the fan thoroughly distributes the additional water. Even entirely dry fodder will make good silage, providing the water is added in equal weight to the fodder. In any case, the fodder should be tramped down thoroughly. Silage made in this manner will keep well. The quality is not quite as good as that made from corn cut while still green and no extra water added, but it makes excellent feed. Silage made from corn fodder, further, is not nearly as sour. It has a pleasant sweet smell and the cows not only like it, but thrive on it as well.

Rye Is Recommended as Economical Swine Feed

The feeding of rye as a substitute for corn in fattening pigs is held by Minnesota experiment station and agricultural extension men to be good economical practice in view of the prevailing market prices for the two cereals.

"As about 102 pounds of rye have given the same results as 100 pounds of corn," says H. G. Zavoral, live stock specialist, "rye at present prices would be the most economical feed. According to Henry & Morrison's 'Feeds and Feeding,' ground rye is worth 94 per cent as much per ton as ground corn for hog feeding.

"Rye is not as palatable as corn and hogs will not consume it as freely. Neither is it as good a feed for horses or cattle as it is for fattening hogs, but by mixing it with more palatable feed, such as corn and oats, it may be satisfactorily fed. It is harder to masticate than some other grains and should be ground or rolled for best results."

Winter Cover Crop Will Afford Soil Protection

A winter cover crop protects the land from washing during the winter months, and at the same time conserves the plant food materials made available during this period. Soil which remains bare during the winter loses much valuable plant food by leaching. A cover crop would make use of this plant food and release it the next spring in time for the crop of cotton or corn to obtain it.

Whenever possible the winter cover crop should be a legume, for legumes are able—by reason of their well-known ability to obtain nitrogen from the air—to increase greatly the store of this element in the soil.

Storing Vegetables for Home Use During Winter

It is to the interest of every family to grow each season a supply of those vegetables suitable for storage, and to see that they are properly stored for use during the winter months when prices are high and vegetables often hard to get. Less work and less expense are involved in storing vegetables than in keeping them by other methods, as canning, drying, and preserving, and the product retains its characteristic flavor much better.

Careful Handling Is of Importance With Apples

Care in handling is of great importance in storing apples. Rough handling results in stem bruises, broken skin and bruised spots. A broken skin gives entrance to blue mold, which develops slowly at a low temperature, but causes considerable deterioration in the fruit.

Hints on Perjury Charges.

New York, Oct. 22.—Mrs. Helen Ellwood Stokes, who is fighting the divorce suit brought by her aged millionaire husband, W. E. D. Stokes, indicated that witnesses who have attempted to besmirch her name will face perjury charges as soon as the present trial is over. There is an insistent rumor that Samuel Untermyer, Mrs. Stokes' chief counsel, has demanded an immediate grand jury investigation of the alleged falsifications by witnesses for Stokes.

AMUSEMENTS

Few persons have been privileged to look upon the Pacific and Atlantic oceans at the same time. When Thomas Meighan's latest Paramount picture, "The Ne'er-Do-Well," is shown at the Met theater tonight and tomorrow and Wednesday, the number will be greatly increased from one of the aeroplane views of the Panama canal featured in the picture gives a view of both oceans.

During the filming of exterior scenes for Rex Beach's novel in Panama, Director Alfred E. Green sent William Miller, cameraman, into the air to get certain scenes of the locks for use in the picture. While at a high altitude, Mr. Miller was able to get a shot which gave a glimpse of both the Atlantic and Pacific.

In making other air views for the picture, seven DeHavilland planes and two Martin bombers, all furnished by the U. S. army in the canal zone and piloted by army fliers, were used. The army officers who helped the Paramount company in making these scenes for "The Ne'er-Do-Well" were Major F. Walsh, Captain Smith, Captain Minter, Captain R. Quinn, Lieutenant Leland Miller, Lieutenant Frad Clark. All of these officers are stationed at France field, canal zone.

In "The Ne'er-Do-Well" Mr. Meighan is seen as the shiftless son of a man of wealth who is disowned by his father after a certain escapade in New York which resulted in the young man being shanghaied on board a steamship bound for Panama where he is left penniless and thrown upon his own meagre resources. Here he meets Chiquita, a beautiful Spanish girl, played by Lila Lee, and their love romance is not only prolific of highly dramatic developments, but ends in the regeneration of the young American ne'er-do-well. The supporting company is excellent.

My dear folks young and old we will a tale unfold that will bring joy and laughs galore; wholesome fun by the ton which keeps gloom on the run and you will laugh until you roar.

Pretty girls, roguish eyes, a glimpse of paradise, nifty dances and costumes rare; a riot of laughter coming right after will drive away gloom and despair. Buy your tickets today, do it now, right away, put on the joyful pleasure skids and glide to the big show where joy is all the go, namely "The Captain and the Kids" made famous by R. Dirks, the originator of "Katzenjammer Kids" which appears at the Grand theater Thursday, October 25.

KILLED WHEN
AUTO UPSET

Life of James Alonzo Hart Was
Crushed Out Sunday Evening.

Accident Happened at Intersection of Williamsport and Jackson Pikes—
Other Occupants of Car Sustained
Only Slight Bruises.

A joy ride Sunday evening caused the death of James Hart, aged 22 years, who was killed outright when the car in which he was riding, a Buick six, upset.

The accident happened at the intersection of the Jackson and Williamsport pikes near the home of Joseph Thomas, at the end of the detour on the Williamsport pike.

In the car with him were Harley and Rockford Hart, brothers of the man who lost his life; Pearl Delong and Harry Allen, of Columbus. The Hart boys live with their mother, Mrs. Lillie Hart, on the John Metzger farm in Washington township.

The dead man's remains were brought to this city by Jesse Owens and were taken to the Mader & Eberly undertaking parlors and were viewed by Coroner O. H. Dunton.

The other occupants of the car were only slightly injured. It seems that when the car upset the body of the car caught James Hart and crushed his chest. Pearl Delong was the driver of the car.

James Alonzo Hart was born in Hocking county, November 9, 1901, and was a son of Alfred and Lillie Lowery Hart.

He is survived by his mother, four sisters and two brothers. They are Harley and Rockford Hart; Mrs. Opal Watson and Misses Marvina and Gladys Hart, of this city, and Mrs. Alma Bookwalter, of Columbus.

The funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the United Brethren church, conducted by Rev. Mr. Hiles. Burial in the cemetery at Darbyville.

LAST TO INVADE ENGLAND

Writer Says John Paul Jones Was
First and Only American to
Forcibly Enter Britain.

A decidedly interesting point is raised by a well-known Chester gentleman who, in a letter, says of John Paul Jones:

"He was the first and the only American officer, in army or navy, to invade Great Britain, and he was the last invader of that country in the world."

Jones carried the torch to England as a British general carried it to the White House at Washington a generation later.

But do not airplanes count as invaders? Many German planes hovered over England and hundreds were killed by bombs dropped from such aircraft.

Buy a piece of real estate and the title reaches up to the sky. I imagine England would assume that anybody who invaded her air space was invading England, which would take from our greatest naval hero the distinction of being the last invader.

Very likely it was meant that Jones was the last man-o'-warman to reach England, and yet German submarine officers might dispute that.—Girard in the Philadelphia Inquirer.

Father of Microscopy.

Father of scientific microscopy is the title given by modern scientists to Anthony van Leeuwenhoek, a native of Delft in Holland, where he died on August 26, 1723. Although without the advantages of a liberal education, Leeuwenhoek was a microscopist of remarkable ability, and many important discoveries were made by him, the chief being undoubtedly that of the capillary circulation of the blood. He first sought to discern this in the comb of a young cock, the ear of a white rabbit, and the membrane of a bat's wing, and failed, but achieved success with the tail of a newly-hatched tadpole, in which, he says, "I could distinctly perceive the whole circuit of the blood in its passage to the extremities of the vessels and its return towards the heart."

Pet Had Various Names.

A neighbor, seeing the seven-year-old daughter of a geologist playing with a bedraggled but cherished kitten, asked what her pet was called. "Well," replied the precocious youngster, "that depends. Father calls her a segregation from an intrusive magma of doubtful genesis; mother refers to her as the basement complex; sister Helen insists that she is a typical example of secondary impoverishment; but I just call her my dear little kitty."

One hundred and sixty-nine people will be given steady employment at the Hinde Paper Box company's new plant. Subscribe now and let us help them get it started.

SOCIAL CALENDAR

At 10:30 o'clock on Saturday morning Miss Helen Leist, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. G. G. Leist, and Mr. Christian Schwarz of this city, were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. E. K. Johnson, of the Methodist Episcopal church performed the ceremony. In the house, bitter-sweet and autumn flowers were used as artistic decorations and the mantel before which the couple stood was covered with asparagus, on one side of which there was a large bow of white tulle; at the other side stood tall baskets filled with beautiful white chrysanthemums and on the mantel there was a candelabra filled with white candles.

The bride, who was unattended, wore a seal brown dress of crepe back satin, trimmed with accordion pleated georgette of the same shade. She wore satin pumps and stockings to match. Her corsage was of sunburst roses.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served. At the bride's table pink dahlias formed the centerpiece and at each place, there was a tiny box containing a piece of the bride's cake. The place cards were decorated with wedding bells. Upon their return from a short honeymoon thru the southern part of the state the couple will reside in Chillicothe, where Mr. Schwarz has a position with the Sears & Nichols Canning Co. The bride and groom are both graduates of Everts high school in the class of 1917, and their marriage is the culmination of a high school friendship.

The out of town guests were Miss Laura Mengert, Miss Jane McCandlish and Mr. and Mrs. George Leist of Columbus; Mrs. John Taylor of Newark and Miss Lucile Haswell and Mr. and Mrs. George Connelly, of Cleveland.

MURDERER CAPTURED

Charles Brown, colored, slayer of Wilson Davis, colored, was captured at Crestline, Monday morning. Brown shot and killed Davis at a dance at Austin, Ross county, on the night of October 13. Brown wrote to his lady friend in Chillicothe to send him some money as he was broke. It was thru this letter that his whereabouts was made known.

Someone threw a burning match into some oil in the gutter in front of the Crist building near the Ferris wheel Saturday night; alarm number twelve was turned in. The police department stopped the fire department apparatus, before they tore thru the crowd down Court street as the fire was of no consequence and was quickly extinguished.

GREAT CROWDS BREAK PUMPKIN SHOW RECORDS.

Wonderful Displays of Field, Orchard, Garden, Dairy and Kitchen Viewed by Many Thousands--Big Parades Were Features of Twentieth Fall Festival--As Usual the Showing of Babies, Our Best Crop, Was the Center of Interest--Everybody Worked Hard and Success Was the Reward--List of Prize Winners.

With many thousands of people crowded into the business section of the city on Main street from Pickaway Scioto and on Court from High to ound and with automobiles parked almost every bit of available space all the streets and alleys, Circle- le's Pumpkin Show closed Saturday night in a blaze of glory, and will go own in history as the most successful er put on by the merchants of the ty.

This is a quiet town now without the mpah, compah of the big brass drum the call of the show barker and the lunch stand concessionaire and the loud smell of the onionized hamburger. The heaviest pumpkin weighed 75 pounds. W. H. Stout is guilty of rais- ing this monster and he was awarded first prize.

The heaviest squash was raised by J. M. Grabill and this piece of vegeta- tion weighed exactly 101 pounds and ten ounces. It is four feet in length and three feet in circumference.

These mammoth productions of the soil excite much comment and go to show that the land of old Pickaway has not been exhausted.

In the corn section the sweepstakes display was captured by A. C. Cupp, of Wayne township, on the best ten ears. His variety was the Silver King. The tallest cornstalk measured six- teen feet and two and one-half inches and was grown by Raymond Anderson.

The longest ear of corn was 13 1/2 inches in length and was raised by J. Baxter Anderson.

The heaviest ear of corn weighed one pound and fifteen ounces and was grown by Marcus Owens.

The parades; Industrial, Baby, Auto- mobile, Comic and Characterization, were all great features; but, as usual, the procession of the little tots at- tracted the most attention and received the highest praise.

In the Industrial pageant there were twenty entries. A vast deal of time was expended and much artistic work was done in preparing the floats for this parade. The procession of floats was a reminder that the merchants and the utility companies are keenly alive to the worth of advertising and also to the city's commercial interests.

The Industrial parade consisted of seventeen floats. The prize winners were; First, The Citizens Telephone company; second, The Seitz Music Shop; third, The Pickaway Lumber company. The judges were; Mrs. Howard Wiseman, of Marshalltown, Iowa; Mrs. Harold Clarke, of Pitts- burgh, Pennsylvania, and Mrs. L. O. Prumpler, of Danville, Virginia.

The furniture on the first prize win- ner was loaned by H. G. Stevenson, the West Main street furniture dealer.

The Comic and Characterization parade was, in itself, a carnival, so gorgeous and colorful was its make- up. The grotesque was coupled with the comic in such a way that it would make a master hand to describe the costumes properly. Who would think of a makeup of a half groom and half bride, but Miss Ollie Sockrider, who won the first prize, or the Colonial Game put on by Mrs. Christy Voll, and Miss Pumpkin Show by Miss Blanche Young? "Jack in the Box" was an appropriate makeup put on by little Jack Foreman. These were first four prize winners in the Characterization division in the order named.

In the Comic section, Miss Anna Dresbach and Mrs. Edwin Wilson won first prize, representing Mr. and Mrs. Doolittle and Mrs. Ed. Shanton repre- sented Aunt Dinah. The Dry Detect- ive was excellently portrayed by Roy Henn, while Mrs. Claude Ankrom and Miss Florence Willoughby represented the numerous Brown family. The prizes were awarded in the order given above.

The automobile parade was most interesting and attracted a great deal of attention. It was divided into two sections, the first consisting of new cars and the second of old ones. Each new car was driven by the most at- tractive young lady available and she chose as her passengers other attrac- tive young ladies.

In this section, the basis for judging was fifty per cent for the most beau- tiful driver and fifty per cent for the most attractive car. In case of a tie or if in doubt; that is, if a judge could not agree with himself, he could take into consideration the passengers in the cars.

In the new car division were the following:

Miss Vera Walters driving a Ford sedan. Mrs. Frank H. Smith, Chevrolet sedan. Mrs. Frank Kline Jr., Gray coach. Miss Opal Reichelderfer, Overland Champion.

Miss Helen Bennett, Jewett sedan. Mrs. Joe Noecker Jr., Paige sedan. Miss Marie Reichelderfer, Jordan. Miss Bernadine Lutz, Studebaker sedan.

Miss Miriam Ruggles, Cadillac sedan. Mrs. Coit Blacker, Essex coach. Miss Mary Pickens, Sport Model Buick touring car.

Mrs. Harry Clifton, Buick coupe. Miss Mary Newton, Packard tour- ing car.

Miss Alys Seitz, Chalmers sedan. The prize in this section was given to the Cadillac car driven by Miss Miriam Ruggles. The local dealer is G. L. Schlear.

The second section, made up of good, bad, indifferent, broken down and worse cars, excited the risibilities of the onlookers and made a decided hit.

The old cars were judged on three points; old age, dilapidated appear- ance and poor running condition.

In this section the prize was awarded to Number 10, a Ford of the vintage of 1913, which was driven by Ernest May.

The entries in this section were as follows:

Clothes and Cleanliness It is true that clothes were more picturesque in past ages and that men as well as women gloried in gorgeous apparel. The nobleman was as fond as his "lady love" of rich fabrics and ruffles, and the clasp that held his floating plume to his velvet hat flashed with real gems. But here is where civilization takes a hand. Compare the cleanliness of the men of the past with those of the present. In the Sixteenth century French gentlemen changed their linen once in two weeks, and even at that were deemed reck- lessly extravagant by the English for so doing.

Our "Fortunes." What we call our fortunes, good or ill, are but the wise dealings and dis- tributions of a wisdom higher, and a kindness greater than our own. I sup- pose that their meaning is we should learn, by all the uncertainties of our life, even the smallest, how to be brave and steady and temperate and hopeful, whatever comes, because we believe that behind it all there lies a purpose of good, and over it all there watches a providence of blessing.— Henry van Dyke.

Unique Portrait. A portrait of Charles I in an art gal- lery at Oxford, England, is composed entirely of small letters. The head and ruff contain the Lord's prayer, the apostles' creed and the book of psalms.

The great industry James J. Hinde built at Sandusky and other cities, prospered because of liberal wages.

Valuable Thimbles.
All over the world the thimble is a symbol of industry. Fashion in thimbles is very luxurious in the East. Wealthy Chinese ladies have thimbles carved out of mother-of-pearl, and sometimes the top is a single precious stone. Thimbles with an agate or onyx mounted in gold are often seen, as well as thimbles encrusted with rubies. The queen of Siam possesses a thimble in the form of a lotus-bud, with her name exquisitely worked in tiny diamonds round the margin.

DANCE WITH DORIS

By DOROTHY DOUGLAS

(©, 1923, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)
TOMMY WEBSTER called himself every known kind of an idiot, but it didn't help matters in the least.

He was in love with a girl whom he had not met and never expected to meet, for she was a girl who danced in one of the famous "Revue's." It was called dancing, but it was in reality just floating about the stage like an exquisite bit of thistledown.

Tommy hated the audience for their wild and noisy applause that clamored for Doris until she slipped out time and time again to bow her pretty thanks and kiss her snow-white fingers. He knew she must be weary and it annoyed Tommy that she must stand there with that sparkling smile on her lips and in her eyes the joy of great conquest for that noisy public to admire.

If Doris Deene had been a little nonentity on the stage he might have made an effort to become acquainted with her and win her away from her profession, but to one who seemed destined to reach the height of her profession Tommy felt the odds too much against him.

So he had decided that the best thing for him to do was to forget Doris.

It was not going to be easy. Tommy was not the kind of man who loves often and lightly. And Doris, the fluffy bit of white thistledown, with her fair curls and laughing blue eyes, drifted through all his dreams, clinging, beautifully appealing.

So, before taking up his office career in the great steel business of his father, Tommy started on a six months' travel cure and made up his mind that he would return to New York heart and fancy free.

Tommy reached England during the month of June. The days were a bit dull, but the change to glorious sunshine made Ascot, the Derby and the river life a thing of joy. He learned to punt up and down the river quite like an old hand and met many a charming, gaily-decked damsel with whom he passed sundry and varied hours.

It was Ethel Danvers who, while reclining gracefully among various hued cushions at the other end of his punt, who asked him if he was going to the theatrical garden party.

"Sure. I have to see everything I can in the next month and then work, endless, but interesting, work for me. I'll take you and we'll do all the stunts they have to offer. Is it a go?"

"Sure!" laughed Ethel, mocking his American expression.

So it was that Tommy found himself in the Royal hospital grounds at Chelsea enjoying himself immensely. Every type of girl, in every type of garb, from modern Eve to ancient Turkey and all the stars and minor constellations of the stage were there.

Ethel was beginning to think she might spend the rest of her days at Tommy's side, when, standing in front of a dance club which they were about to enter, she felt his arm tighten against his side.

He was reading over the list of stage favorites with whom one could have a fox trot for half a crown, but only one name stood out to Tommy in bold relief—Doris Deene.

He tried to make his voice sound natural as he turned to Ethel.

"Are these names all famous over here? I—I don't know many of your English stars by name."

Ethel read the list. "All pretty much in the public eye. That Doris Deene is from your part of the world and has taken us quite by storm with her dancing. Come on, let's go in. I'd just love to dance once with Jack Buchanan and you try for Doris. I fancy she'd love to chat with some one from home."

So together they went in. Ethel was out on the floor with the tall Jack before Tommy could make his way to Doris.

It was she who began to talk. "I am from New York," said Tommy, feeling like a first-class fool for the shake in his voice. "I used to watch you dance nearly three nights out of the week—a bit soft, wasn't it?"

Doris looked up and smiled straight into Tommy's eyes.

"Oh, I am glad to meet you," she said wistfully. "I'm so homesick for New York and home folks that I could just cry about it." She shyly glanced again at the big, honest boy and knew she liked him—liked him very, very much. "I wonder—I wonder if you would come out to see me some time and just take me out on a bus or up the river or—or, just any place away from theaters? I don't like dancing, but I have to earn my living some way. Could you?"

"Doris Deene," said Tommy, softly, with all his awkwardness gone, "I could do anything on the face of the earth that you ask. We'll have a picnic up the river Sunday—all to ourselves, and every day that you spare me we will lunch together. I am sailing for home on the 27th, and if I can manage to tell you heaps of things that I have wanted to tell you long before this—perhaps you will sail back too."

Tommy Webster had never expected to have his picture in the London papers, but when he sailed away with the famous little dancers—Doris Deene was his wife—it was no wonder the newspapers published the news.

"Tough as Hickory."
"Tough as hickory" is a phrase suggesting the peculiar strength and elasticity of the hickory wood and it may be for that reason your favorite, Gen. Andrew Jackson was endearingly called "Old Hickory" by his soldiers because of his tough, unyielding disposition. This nickname may have been bestowed during the war with the Creek Indians in 1813, when he fed his men on hickory nuts over a period when they were short of rations.

The Spider.

We gave some perfunctory admiration to the landscape, which is indeed only beautiful to those who admire land, and to them perhaps the most beautiful in England. For here is the body of the great chalk spider who straddles over our island—whose legs are the south downs and the north downs and the Chilterns, and the tips of whose toes poke out at Crozer and Dover. He is a clean creature, who grows as few trees as he can, and those few in tidy clumps, and he loves to be tickled by quickly flowing streams. He is plumped all over with earthworks, for from the beginning of time men have fought for the privilege of standing on him, and the oldest of our temples is built upon his back.—E. M. Forster, in "The Celestial Omnibus."

Deserts Not Without Water.

The vast stretches lying between the Sierra Nevada and California and the eastern Cordilleran ranges (Rocky mountains) in the United States, and between the Pacific ocean and the eastern Sierra Madre of Mexico, constitute the great American desert, is superficially waterless. Its plains are usually barren of surface water save for an exceptional saline lagoon. Notwithstanding the apparent scarcity of water, one of the most remarkable features of the great American desert is that water has been secured often in apparently impossible places and in quantities that have made possible the existence of cities and industries, says the Detroit News.

Fish Has a Nasal Pocket.

Fishes possess a smelling faculty. An examination of the nostrils of a fish reveals the fact that they are not connected with the air tube system, as in most animals, but lead into blind pockets lined with delicate membranes well supplied with nerves. In fishes water is not drawn through the nostrils, but merely into the small pockets, and these may be emptied and refilled, says the Detroit News. The quantity of water brought into contact with the nerves of smell must be comparatively small. In some few fishes, as in the globe fishes and puffers, for example, there is no nasal pocket, the nerves being directed into external processes.

Diet Affects Bird Colors.

By varying the diet of birds, Professor Ehrenreich of Berlin has succeeded in changing the coloring of their feathers. Certain foods will cause red and green parrots to turn yellow. His experiments tend to show that a bird's plumage depends largely on the dyestuffs contained in food, says the Detroit News. Dyestuffs put in chicken feed affects the hue of egg yolks to a considerable degree. Caterpillars fed exclusively on walnut foliage become dark butterflies. Indians have long understood the art of changing the color of living birds through the diet method.

Men's Souls Are Tricky Things.

As a matter of precaution I would advise women to leave the souls of men alone, especially their adolescent souls. They consist entirely of amorphous spiritual substances. They have as many rings of sentiment and vaporous eloquence around them as the planet Saturn. It is easy to guide one of the pulpy things into the church; but when you have done it you do not know whether you have committed a blessing or an act of salvation.—Cora Harris in the Saturday Evening Post.

Haddon Hall.

Haddon Hall is a famous mansion in Derbyshire, England, 23 miles northwest of Derby, which has been occupied successfully by the Avenells, Vernons, and Rutlands. The building is in an excellent state of preservation, and represents three different orders of architecture—the Pointed Gothic, the Tudor, and the Elizabethan. No additions to the structure have been made since the sixteenth century. Reference to Haddon Hall is made in Sir Walter Scott's "Peveril of the Peak."

Animals Frozen for Centuries.

The Smithsonian Institution says that cadavers, or bodies, of the northern mastodon and the hairy rhinoceros have been found in the ice of Siberia. Wolves, dogs and bears are said to have eaten of the frozen flesh as it thawed out. Small portions of the muscular tissues, skin covered with hair, stomach contents, etc., of one of these frozen specimens of the mammoth are on exhibition in the United States National museum.

Goats and Women.

According to the ancient records of York county, preserved in the courthouse at Alfred, Me., goats and women were not allowed on the isles of Shoals. One fisherman brought his wife there, at the same time importing some goats. Lengthy legal battles were waged concerning the matter. Finally it was settled that the goats must go but the wife could stay.

Mixed Situation.

Dashaway—"You say your sister will be down in a minute, Willie? That's good news. I thought perhaps she wanted to be excused, as she did the other day." Willie—"Not this time. I played a trick on her." Dashaway—"What did you do?" Willie—"I said you were another fellow!"—London Tit-Bits.

Electric Lamps.

The average amount of light obtained for 1 cent from a standard incandescent electric lamp at first was about seven candle power hours, but it is now possible to obtain with the same 1 cent watt lamp 170 candle power hours for a cent.

BRUTAL ASSAULT

Miss Georgia Stout Struck Near Her Home Saturday Night.

Miss Georgia Stout was waylaid within a hundred feet of her home on West Mill street Saturday evening about 5:45 o'clock by stranger, as she was returning from the office of Dr. Gay L. Hitler, the dentist, where she is employed as assistant.

Miss Stout was assaulted twice. The first time the blow he struck was a glancing one on the head and the second, was squarely on top of her head and produced a cut several inches in length. When the first blow was struck Miss Stout did not see the man, but she turned when he struck her again and she was nearly felled to the ground. She screamed and ran to her home not far away. Dr. A. W. Holman was summoned and attended to her injuries.

The police department was notified but were unable to secure the assailant as Miss Stout could give but a very meager description of him. She said he was a tall, white man.

Altho Miss Stout carried a purse, no attempt was made to rob her. She thinks her assailant followed her from Court street to near her home on West Mill near Scioto.

Detective Creedon, of Columbus, who was in the city is of the opinion that the man who struck Miss Stout must be demented as a similar assault occurred in Columbus some time since and the police department were never able to secure a trace of the assailant.

Miss Stout's condition is now good and she seems to be recovering nicely. She is at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Stout.

Almost Paradise on Earth.
In the fortunate Bermudas there are no reptiles to alarm; the indigenous small lizard is not even dangerous in appearance, and the green turtle is translatable into delicious soup. Of birds and fish the islands have a splendid store; Bermudians would not starve to death even should the importation of meat from this country cease.
